Books

Long, J.S. & Long, R.W. (2000). Caring for Your Family Treasures: Heritage Preservation.

Available at:
Whitby Central Library
Call No. 745.10288 LON

This book focuses on the care and handling of precious family heirlooms such as silverware, wedding gowns, scrapbooks, photos, books, and dolls. It was assembled under the guidance of Heritage Preservation, a nonprofit organization dedicated to preserving cultural artifacts. In addition to providing solid and easy-to-understand information on object preservation, the book offers advice on where to find archival supplies, genealogical information, and, if need be, a professional conservator. The many color photos show how artifactual damage is caused and in some instances how it can be treated.

Taylor, M.A. (2001). Preserving your family photographs

Available at:

Whitby Public Library (Brooklin Branch)

Call No. 771.46 Tay

This book will show you how to organize and store photographs so future generations can enjoy them. Readers will learn to care for photos, how to identify different types of damage and learn basic conservation techniques, how to buy the proper storage materials, how to organize the family photo archive, and how to safely display photographs. This book is a strong follow-up to Uncovering Your Ancestry Through Family Photographs, which discussed how to identify types of old photos and how to interpret family history information in them.
